AMSD's Mission

To advocate for state education policy that enables metropolitan school districts to improve student learning.

Association of Metropolitan School Districts

More than 120 education leaders - superintendents, school board members and district staff - and more than 30 state legislators turned out for the annual AMSD Legislative Preview on Jan. 4 at the Quora Education Center (Intermediate School District 916), to learn about the upcoming 2019 legislative session which began Jan. 8.

The annual AMSD event, which this year included remarks from the incoming Commissioner of Education Mary Cathryn Ricker, precedes each session. The event brings together metro area legislators and education leaders to discuss important education issues and provides legislators the opportunity to hear a presentation of the AMSD platform as they prepare for the upcoming session.

The preview also allows member districts to communicate with legislators how the platform issues affect their districts directly.

AMSD unveiled its 2019 Legislative Platform, "Ensuring an Equitable and Excellent Education," in December 2018, based on surveys with the nearly 50 AMSD member school districts. Districts agreed the five key areas to address in the 2019 session include:

- School funding stabilization
- School safety
- Closing opportunity gaps
- Addressing taxpayer equity
- Enhancing local control

All five points are explained in detail in the platform.

From the Chair

Happy New Year! It was incredibly energizing to have over 150 superintendents, school board members, legislators, district staff and other public education supporters in attendance at AMSD's annual legislative session preview on January 4. Thanks to the nearly 40 legislators and legislative staff who attended the preview. Also, a special thanks to Commissioner of Education Mary Cathryn Ricker, our superintendent speakers who outlined the AMSD legislative priorities and the legislative panel of Representative Jim Davnie, Representative Sondra Erickson, Senator Carla Nelson and Senator Chuck Wiger who shared their thoughts and goals for the 2019 session. It was heartening to hear our legislators speak about the importance of investing in education. I encourage AMSD members to stay engaged throughout the session. Together, our advocacy will benefit teaching and learning for all of our students!

Stephanie Levine, school board member from West St. Paul-Mendota Heights-Eagan, is chair of AMSD.

In addition to sharing the platform, several AMSD superintendents provided context at the preview to show how their districts are directly impacted by state policies.

Supt. David Law of Anoka-Hennepin Schools, for example, presented about the importance of racial equity work with regard to closing opportunity gaps for students — and how by recruiting and retaining teachers of color, Anoka-Hennepin has seen direct impacts on student performance.

Law also emphasized the importance of — and state obligation for — education funding.

Law noted that a funding increase of even 3 percent on the basic formula for education in 2019 — and indexing it to inflation — would still leave his district in the red by more than $300,000 in the coming year.

Three possible budget scenarios
Impact of state revenue on operations
Biennium	1%/1% and $2MM Cross-subsidy buy down per year	2%/2% and $2MM Cross-subsidy buy down per year	3%/3% and $2MM Cross-subsidy buy down per year
Anoka-Hennepin Revenue	1,037,158,855	1,045,185,428	1,053,265,068
Anoka-Hennepin Expenses	1,053,526,663	1,053,553,378	1,053,580,225
Anoka-Hennepin Surplus/(deficit)	(16,367,808)	(8,367,950)	(315,157)

Robbinsdale Supt. Carlton Jenkins

Rising costs were a theme echoed by Supt. Carlton Jenkins of Robbinsdale, who emphasized that the special education cross-subsidy (the amount by which special education expenditures exceed revenue provided by the state and federal governments), if unaddressed, could force his district to divert more than $15 million of general fund dollars to subsidize special education.

Legislative Impact

- If we continue with the same funding patterns, Robbinsdale Area Schools will have to divert $15.5 million from the general fund to subsidize unfunded special education costs. The chronic underfunding of special education services stresses the budgets of school districts across the state. Additionally, it places districts which are property-rich and income-poor in a position reducing services to fully see, support and serve all children, staff and families.
- Recommendation: Help us position Minnesota in providing the highest quality for all children by increasing special education funding.

“The chronic underfunding of special education services stresses the budgets of school districts across the state,” Jenkins said.

Superintendents Connie Hayes of Intermediate School District 916 and Teri Staloch of Prior Lake-Savage also spoke to the group about student mental health challenges, school safety, and the importance of property taxpayer equity based on wealth disparities between districts.

“These disparities should be addressed in the Omnibus Tax Bill,” Staloch said.
